Local school makes annual visit to Tripler to present homemade goodies, ornaments

Members of the Moanalua Elementary School Student Council share a laugh with Tripler Army Medical Center's Commanding General, Maj. Gen. Carla Hawley-Bowland after she presented Pacific Regional Medical Command and TAMC coins to each of the students Tuesday in the TAMC command suite.

Members of the Moanalua Elementary School Student Council visited Tripler Army Medical Center Tuesday to thank Tripler for its community support. The group presented two Gingerbread Houses and homemade cookies to Maj. Gen. Carla Hawley-Bowland, commanding general, TAMC, and visited different wards and departments throughout Tripler to present handmade ornaments and greeting cards to Tripler staff members and patients who are currently recovering at Tripler.

Student Council President Bryce Ikeda delivered the following message to Hawley-Bowland and Tripler Staff:

Thank you for inviting us to Tripler Army Medical Center – we are all excited to be here. Moanalua Elementary appreciates the partnership that we have with Tripler. Your sharing of knowledge, manpower, and resources help enrich our educational experience through the year as we work toward our General Learner Outcomes. We are always impressed with the care and enthusiasm that the people from Tripler demonstrate toward us whenever you are on our campus. Seeing how you work together and share with others helps us to make connections with how we can work with each other in the classroom and at home.

Members of the Moanalua Elementary Student Council distributed ornaments and goodie to several wards during their annual visit to Tripler Tuesday.

Thank You for continuing to work with our students at MES. We hope to visit with all of you in the near future.

On behalf of the students of Moanalua Elementary, I would like to extend our wishes to you, General, your staff, and everyone here at Tripler Army Medical Center for a Mele Kalikimaka and Hauoli Makahiki Hou!

One of the beautiful Gingerbread Houses made by students from Moanalua Elementary was presented to Maj. Gen. Carla Hawley-Bowland Tuesday.
