Junior ROTC visits TAMC

TRIPLER ARMY MEDICAL CENTER-Tuesday, October 5th marked the start of an exciting 3 days for some of Oahu's JROTC cadets, coming to Tripler Army Medical Center from numerous high schools around the island.

This event, designed for the young cadets who show interest in pursuing healthcare professions, gave them a peek at the life of AMEDD soldiers.

They kicked off Wednesday morning with a rigorous physical training session based on casualty evacuation, followed by tours of the barracks that house enlisted soldiers, as well as the gym facilities available.

On Thursday, the cadets were split into groups according to their interests. Some got to dabble with chemicals and reagents in the lab, while others sat in on surgeries in the OR.

When asked at the end of the day if they still have interest in healthcare after watching the hospital in action, most of the students expressed even greater excitement at a career in the medical field.
